

SECLORE AI SERVICES – ACCEPTABLE USE POLICY

This Acceptable Use Policy (“Policy”) governs your use of Seclore’s AI Services. The Parties acknowledge and agree that the provisions of the Seclore AI Terms, shall apply to, and are incorporated into, this Policy as though such provisions were set forth herein in their entirety. Please note that we may update this Policy periodically. We encourage you to review the Policy regularly to stay informed of any modifications.

1. Compliance with Laws and Regulations

You are responsible for using the AI Services in accordance with all relevant laws, regulations, and Seclore’s instructions.

2. Usage Restrictions

While using the AI Services, you shall not:

- (a) sublicense, resell, lease, distribute, or otherwise transfer any rights to use the AI Services;
- (b) reverse-engineer, decompile, disassemble, modify, or attempt to derive its source code or alter its execution;
- (c) remove, alter, or obscure any copyright, trademark, or proprietary notices;
- (d) copy, scrape, data-mine, or extract information (manually or through automated means) without Seclore’s written consent;
- (e) engage in fraudulent, dishonest, malicious, or unlawful conduct, including impersonation or misrepresentation;
- (f) damage, disable, bypass, or interfere with the security, integrity, performance, or availability of the AI Services or related systems;
- (g) probe, scan, or test vulnerabilities, conduct load testing, stress testing, or benchmarking, disrupt operations, exceed or attempt to circumvent usage limits, quotas, rate limits, authentication mechanisms, or access controls, or otherwise interfere with the AI Services or other users;
- (h) use unauthorised or stolen third-party content, or alter identifying metadata or watermarks;
- (i) introduce or transmit viruses, malware, or other harmful code; or
- (j) make unauthorised copies or backups of the AI Services.

3. Violations of the Policy

If you violate the terms of this Policy, Seclore reserves the right to suspend or terminate your access to the AI Services without prior notice to you.